Allard Students Exhibit Generosity

Allard fourth-graders Robbie deBrucky and Madison Chodikov display some of the donated stuffed animals surrounding Allard's Generosity Tree.

Allard Elementary students once again displayed a Generosity Tree in the building's main lobby throughout December. Decorated with stuffed animals, jewelry and other donated items, the tree serves as this month's service project for students and staff.

The tree's decorations are donated to Ronald McDonald House charities as well various nursing homes in the airport area in coordination with the Coraopolis VFW Post.

Hundreds of items are given each year by Allard families, who never need a reminder that the tree needs decorated. Year after year, the tree's boughs overflow with gently used toys and twinkling jewelry and the donations also pile up alongside the tree.
