230 Students Showcase Science in Bon Meade Event

Bon Meade fifth-grader Sudhee Acharya's scientific explanation behind mood rings was one of 230 projects exhibited at Bon Meade's annual Science Fair.

Bon Meade Elementary School students created 230 projects for this year's "Go for the Gold" Science Fair held on Feb. 23 and 24.

Students in grades two through five produced large display boards with hands-on accompaniments that dealt with topics ranging from the science behind sports drinks and aluminum can and string phone telephones to planets and human anatomy.

The range of scientific theories on display was vast and thoroughly educational to all visitors.

In addition to the visual projects, 12 students also gave oral presentations about their displays to a panel of district educators, administrators and area professionals.

Special thanks go to Brooke Covington for organizing the fair and Eaton Corp., whose donation provided T-shirts for all participants.
